For BlackBerry setup, you will need to create a forwarding account using the BlackBerry Internet Service website, which is a service operated by BlackBerry (Research in Motion Limited.) The exact web address of the BlackBerry Internet Service depends on your wireless service provider. To locate the address of your service provider's BlackBerry Internet Service website, click the link and then select your wireless provider from the list at the bottom of the page:

  You should be able to consult your wireless service provider's documentation for more information on accessing the BlackBerry Internet Service website.

For additional information on using the BlackBerry Internet Service, please visit the BlackBerry Technical Knowledge Center at the following URL:
