How to use Microsoft Expression Web to edit your websit...

Author:
Webservio Inc.

Created On: 16 Apr 2014 11:23 AM

You may use the following procedure to connect with SFTP using Microsoft Expression Web:
1. On the menu bar, click Site > Open Site...2. For Location enter sftp://exampledomain.com3. If you would like to have easy access to this later, you may check Add to managed list (that will make it show up under Managed Sites for future access)4. Click Open5. If you get a dialog box about Remote Site Editing Options select Edit live site now and click OK6. Enter the username and password for your SFTP access. If you do not know this information, check the documentation provided to you by Webservio Support at the time your hosting account was created.7. Click OK8. This should give you access to the file structure of your website. Open the folder htdocs. Alternatively, this folder is sometimes called public_html. This folder contains the image and html files for your website. It also may include sub-folders for different sections of the website.Â IMPORTANT: We recommend making a copy of an html file before editing it so that you can easily revert back the the original version if needed.