How To Test Delivery to your Primary Mail Server

Author:
Webservio Inc.

Created On: 25 May 2010 11:43 AM

URL:Â http://testrelay.mxshelter.com

To Test VPS/Dedicated Mail Bagging Service:

» Enter an email address within the domain set up for mail bagging (ie yourdomain.com) in the Email Address field.
» Enter the name of your mail bagging server in the Email Server field (ie mxyourdomain.mxshelter.com)
» Click "Go"
» You will receive a success confirmation and a test bagged messages will be sent to the email address specified in step 1 above.
» If you have Email Continuity enabled for the email address specified in step 1 above, the email continuity account will receive a copy of the test bagged message
» If your testing is not successful, please let us know by submitting a ticket at:Â http://support.webservio.net

To Test Shared Mail Bagging Service:

» Enter an email address within the domain set up for mail bagging (ie yourdomain.com) in the Email Address field.
» Enter mx1.mailshelter.com in the Email Server field
» Click "Go"
» You will receive a success confirmation, and a test bagged message will be sent to the email address you specified in step 1 above.
» Repeat steps 1-3 for mx2.mailshelter.com, mx3.mailshelter.com, and mx4.mailshelter.com
» If your testing is not successful, please let us know by submitting a ticket at:Â
http://support.webservio.netTo Test Delivery to Your Primary Mail Server:

» Enter an email address within your domain in the Email Address field.
» Enter your mail server name in the Email Server field
» Click "Go"
» You will receive a success confirmation, and a test message will be sent to the email address you specified in step 1 above.
» If your testing is not successful, your primary mail server is not functioning properly.